What Audiences Are Saying

“Gerry brought incredible value to my audience and really brought the amazing information that people needed immediately to transform their lives and their businesses.”

Tonya Hofmann (Public Speakers Association)

“If you are looking to dial your business up and to truly take some action that is going to move you forward, I'm telling you, Gerry is your guy. He is not only passionate about what he brings to the table, but he is also sincere and so authentic about his message, that I guarantee that you're going to be enthralled to take action.”

Candy Barone (You Empowered Strong)

Through his consulting and training company, Quantum Point, Gerry Seymour has worked with, trained, and coached managers and teams from hundreds of companies around the world.

Gerry has been helping managers build, develop, and lead powerful teams since 1992. His personal focus is on helping managers become more effective leaders, to improve both business results and the lives of those they work with. His approach combines human psychology, proven business practices, and more than a little humor – because “Balance is not a myth.”
